I bought my first bike in 1983, a 1979 Honda CB550/4 Super Sport. At the time I was an apprentice at Atlas Aircraft Corporation (now Denel). Since then I have always had an interest in motorcycles and now that I'm no longer in the Aircraft industry, but in Information Technology, I maintain my sanity through my enjoyment of motor-cycles, whether I'm tinkering with or riding motorcycles. In 1995 I taught a friend to ride and soon realised that I had a knack for teaching (those who can't do, teach...), at the time I was still racing at regional level with limited success.

By 1998 I was teaching more regularly, mainly friends but word was getting around and I started getting more involved and assisted the WPMC Motorcycle Section at the Advanced Riding Schools. I then started this web site and slowly and progressively I have got rather busy.

Although the training I provide is on a part-time basis I hope to one day (after retirement) turn this into a business.

My daily commuter is a BMW F800GS which is also used when my wife, who has a BMW F650GS and I attend rallies, touring or just go for a ride. Although I'm by no means a serious "off-roader" I do enjoy the occasional off-the-beaten track ride and for this the F800GS is well suited.
